

DBIA-WPR OWNERS COUNCIL WEBINAR - USE OF CONSTRUCTION MANAGER'S IN DESIGN-BUILD

Are you interested in effective use of a Construction Management firm for your project? When should you bring a CM on board for a project. What scope of services should you engage a firm with for successful Design-Build delivery? How do you set expectations for a CM? If so please join us for an informative webinar with Mr. Mike Courtney, who has experience as Executive for a CM firm, has worked as a developer, and has overseen extensive governmental Design-Build programs.

This webinar is hosted by the Owner's Council and is intended to educate owners on design-build practices.

SPEAKER

Michael J. Courtney

JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF CALIFORNIA, CAPITAL PROGRAM OFFICE

Mike Courtney has more than 34 years of experience, in the private and public sector. During this time he has developed and built a wide variety of facilities; managed all phases of project delivery including budgeting, entitlements, pre-construction, design, construction administration, real estate development, financing and building operations. Some of his past projects include more than four million square feet of office buildings, public safety facilities, K-12 schools, research facilities, courthouses, correctional facilities, a minor league ball park, a 10,000 seat indoor arena, hotels and industrial projects.

From 1997 to 2001 Mike served as the governor's appointee for the State of California's Real Estate and Building Program. While with the State, Mike played a key role in the development of the State's real estate policy and design-build procurement laws, procurement process, and contracts. Mike has managed numerous design-build projects, either directly managing the project, or representing the owner in the areas of procurement, selection, contract negotiations, project procedures, and project execution.

In June of 2016, Mike was appointed to lead the Judicial Council of California's Capital Program Office which is responsible for the design and construction of court facilities throughout California. Mike has his DBIA Professional and CMAA Certifications.
